BELGRADE, March 12.—Yugoslavia definitely will sign a pact of friendship and non-aggression with Germany and Italy this week-end but all Axis pressure to bring this country into the tri-partite agreement thus far has failed, it was learned today.

German Minister Otto Heeren called on Yugoslavian Foreign Minister Alexander Cincar-Marcovic this morning and discussed at great length the lines the agreement will take.

Against "Total Surrender"
Neutral observers in Belgrade were convinced the Axis was working at full strength for outright Yugoslavian adherence in a war agreement. But public opinion in this country believed that a mere friendship pact would be enough to sound the death-knell of Greece.

Morally, at least, Yugoslavian col-

Report German Bombs Again Fall On Grounds At Buckingham Palace

By JAMES E. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 12.—Three German bombs fell on the grounds of Buckingham Palace in London during a recent Nazi raid, causing considerable damage and fatally injuring a policeman, it was announced officially today.

King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were not in residence at the palace when the bombs fell.

It was the second time since the German "blitz" attacks began that the palace grounds were hit.

Revelation that the palace once more had been the target of Nazi raiders followed a night of widespread German bombing assaults.

Latest information received in London this morning said 34 separate localities were bombed last night and that concentrated attacks were made on three different towns.

Sustained Raid

Many families were buried under the debris of their homes in one northwestern town, which experienced its most sustained raid in many months.

Of the three bombs that hit the Buckingham palace grounds, it was disclosed, two dug huge craters in the palace forecourt.

The third damaged the north gate lodge, shattering the gate pillars and fatally injuring a policeman on duty there.

The lodge-keeper and his wife had

PRESIDENT BEGINS SPEEDING UP AID

Group Of Fast Mosquito Boats May Be First Dispatched To Great Britain

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Democratic congressional leaders today predicted passage within one to two weeks of President Roosevelt's proposed request for $7,000,000,000 to finance British aid, despite indications that enormity of the sum may precipitate a new and bitter fight over the lease-lend program.

Critical of the huge appropriation which the chief executive will formally ask today, Senate Minority Leader McNary, who voted for the aid-democracies bill, declared that the amount is too excessive to be appropriated "in one full sweep."

"The money should be appropriated from time to time as there is need thereof in the best judgment of the executive and congress," McNary said.

Says Congress Committed
Rep. Cannon (D) Mo., acting chairman of the house appropriations committee asserted, however, that congress has committed itself and that the funds will be approved overwhelmingly.

A subcommittee will begin hearings tomorrow and may report the bill to the house next Tuesday, he said. "It can and will be passed promptly because the appropriation carries out the policy just adopted."

Sen. Adams (D) Colo., a powerful member of the senate appropriations committee, was reported to be the only one who said late this afternoon that congress conferring with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, who complained of the huge figure, Adams refused to deny this.

"I think $7,000,000,000 will be

End Testimony In Murder Case

Fate Of Mrs. Leila Dixon For Death Of Husband To Reach Jury Soon

WOMAN RELATES STORY OF ABUSE

At noon today it appeared probable that the murder case against Mrs. Leila May Dixon, charged with the murder of her husband, Walter Dixon, on October 25, 1940, would go to the jury late this afternoon.

The defense closed its case at 10:45 and the Commonwealth had it reopened to admit the testimony of a witness just found this morning.

The witness, Robert Edmundson testified that he had been in the colored Elks club on the night of October 25, saw the argument between Walter Dixon and his wife and later saw them on the sidewalk. He did not see any blows exchanged, but said he saw Dixon lean over and say "She cut me."

In his testimony Edmundson said he had been told by Dr. Garnett it would "be better not to testify."

Judge W. Walter Braham indicated that the inferred intimidation would be investigated, and Dr. Garnett was to be called this afternoon to explain any participation he had in the matter, if any.

Leila May Dixon took the stand in her own behalf Tuesday afternoon. She told of a long series of abuses at her husband's hands, beatings, kickings and being knocked down to the floor. She said on the night of the slaying she had put a knife in her "bosom, in the event that he attacked her again."

With a woman friend, she went to the colored Elks club for a bottle of beer. Dixon came over to her table and she bought him a bottle of beer, but he refused to sit with her.

Dollar-A-Year Men To Continue To Hold Key Posts In Defense Set-Up

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Dollar-a-year men, regardless of politics, will continue to hold key positions in the defense set-up, White House officials emphasized today as America's "all out" British aid program swung into high gear.

It was obvious that President Roosevelt's authorized spokesmen resented widely spread rumors that William S. Knudsen, Edward Steptinus, Jr., John Biggers, Sidney Hillman and other ranking officials of the office of production management are to be superseded now that the lease-lend bill has become law. The President was expected to slap these rumors down personally when he goes on the air within the next few days to explain to the nation and the world just now the job of lending the democracies "all aid short of war" in their struggle against the Axis powers. No date as yet has been set for this "fireside chat."

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early stated that reports of impending O. P. M. resignations are

House Leaders Announce Work To Start On New Tax Bill In April

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, March 12.—With congress awaiting his $7,000,000,000 British aid request, President Roosevelt today summoned his so-called "high command" for a White House conference, as house leaders announced they would start work on a new tax bill April 1 to help finance the huge program.

Developments were expected. Mr. Roosevelt spent the morning closeted with his budget director, Harold R. Smith, getting his letter to Speaker Rayburn ready to be read to the house at noon formally requesting the $7,000,000,000 appropriation.

The president called Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of Navy Knox, Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, Rear Admiral Robert Ingersoll, acting chief of naval operations, and Smith.

New Tax Bill

3. Chairman Doughton (D) N. C., of the house ways and means committee (which originates all taxing legislation) announced that hearings would commence April 1 on a new tax bill expected to boost federal levies at least $1,000,000,000 annually possibly as much as $2,000,000,000.

4. Democratic leaders predicted congress would pass Mr. Roosevelt's requested $7,000,000,000 British aid appropriation within two weeks, despite indications that the size of the request might precipitate a bitter battle.

In requesting the "high command" to confer with him, the president, according to the White House, planned to go over his plans in detail with the cabinet officers and de-

PA NEW OBSERVES

According to a note from Dr. H. C. Coulter of New Wilmington, largely through an article and picture printed in The News and other newspapers, some time ago, his son, William, had been asked to go to New York to appear on the program "We, The People" on the evening of March 18. The article and picture mentioned concerned one of the numerous inventions of the boy.

Commenting humorously on the weather and the descending snow, a street car passenger said this morning, "If this keeps up, we will soon get used to it."

With the snowfall, a variety of snowmen made by children are seen decorating the yards of many families, and that made by Maria Walker of 212 West Falls street has attracted much attention. She has made a snow man and a snow woman with painted cheeks, rouged lips, a veiled hat for the little old woman, and a man's hat on the gentleman. The pair stand side by side in the yard, looking cheerfully at the passersby, as if to say "how-de-do."

A robin red breast made its debut this morning, perched nonchalantly on a clothes post at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Rowland. Superior street, singing its song of spring, amidst a heavy fall of snow flakes.

City Engineer Glenn R. Throop today stated that, gradually, all the tall concrete posts now carrying street signs, will be replaced by concrete posts only four feet tall.

Sofia Report Asserts Greece To Make Peace

By HUGO SPECK
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SOPIA, March 12.—The game is up and Greece is ready to make peace rather than face the might of German legions massed on Bulgaria's southern borders, a member of the Greek diplomatic mission in German-controlled Sofia said today.

(Editor's Note: In Athens yesterday all foreign reports or suggestions that Greece would accept a German-dictated peace with Italy were ridiculed. Reports from the Thracian frontier region this morning said Greek civilians were evacuating that area and pouring toward Salonika, in evident expectation of hostilities between Greek and German troops. German reconnaissance planes were said to be circling over Greek Thracian territory, taking military photographs.)

German authorities in Sofia likewise expect Greece to come to terms rather than face the German forces now set for an invasion. These sources said they believed the peace terms would be about as follows:

1.—Elimination of all British influence on the Greek mainland.

2.—Cession of Greek Thracian territory to Bulgaria, possibly including all territory reaching as far as the Struma river.

3.—Re-establishment of the original Greco-Albanian frontier.

4.—German use of Greek bases on the Aegean sea, chiefly Salonika, but only for duration of the war.

Would Bar Italians

One source declared Greece would prefer to make these concessions than see her country completely destroyed, but would make them only on the specific understanding that Italian forces will not enter Greek territory.

Informed Greek sources said that if Grecian Thrace is being evacuated, this may be for the purpose of defense. But other quarters said the evacuation might also be for the purpose of allowing German forces to enter, after which the area would be handed over to Bulgaria without bringing up a minority question.

German quarters admitted that the Greeks might first put up a "token defense" before "capitulating."

Move To Legalize Gambling Fails

Legislature To Shelve Measures

Bills Aiming At Legalizing Gambling Are "Picked" By Senate Committee

CAMBRIA SENATOR SPONSORED EFFORT

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 12.—Attempts to legalize certain forms of gambling in Pennsylvania today appeared defeated for this session of the legislature following the "picking" of four enabling measures by a senate committee.

The measures, all sponsored by Sen. John J. Haluska, (D) Cambria, would have legalized horse racing, bingo, slot machines and pin ball machines, permitted state taxation of profits obtained from them, and use of the revenue for charitable purposes.

Action Postponed
Chairman John M. Walker, (R) Allegheny Judiciary General committee, informed Haluska that action on the bills had been postponed indefinitely. Later Walker revealed the committee had been unanimous in refusing to report the bills out.

The official reason for "picking" the bills, Walker stated, was that they were revenue-raising measures and under the constitution must originate in the house. Similar bills have already been introduced there, but there is nothing to indicate that they will be approved in the lower chamber. Democratic State Chairman Meredith Meyers recently issued a statement disavowing party support of such measures.

Program Pushed
Meanwhile the Democratic party's farm and labor program was pushed toward passage in the house while the legislature prepared to take action on two defense measures. The house bill creating a state defense reserve corps was due to receive second reading in the senate today, while the Acherman-Woodside Defense Council Act was understood ready to be reported out of committee. Both defense bills have already passed the house.

On their farm and labor program, house Democrats were ready to take final action on one bill and give the other first reading. The Moul Conservation bill was to be passed and forwarded to the senate for concurrence. Sponsored by the York county Democrat, the measure would strengthen the 1937 law, revamp the membership of the State Soil Conservation board, and appropriate $57,500 for its expenses.

enough," he said caustically. "However, congress is on record for British aid and I suppose the program will be carried out. I understand that it is intended to be a long-range program."

Program Is Hazy
"Right now the program is a hazy and shadowy affair. They are trying to find out what Britain needs and fill her needs."

Senate foes who unsuccessfully sought defeat of the lend-lease bill, launched an attack on the president's program.

"I wish to heaven there had been a section in the bill asking for $7,000,000,000," said Sen. Nye (R) N. D. "There probably would have been a much different attitude in congress. Now that the money has been asked, congress and the people have the right to know what it is that entails such a huge program."

Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., leading non-interventionist, said that he was "neither surprised nor shocked" by the president's request. He added that "this is only the beginning of what the administration will ask to help finance the European war."

"Will Shorten War"
Sen. Mead (D) N. Y., expressed pleasure of the amount sought for the program, declaring that it will "have a depressing effect on the dictator nations, and a stimulating effect on the democracies."

"The large sum will shorten the war, and keep the war from spreading either to the United States or other western hemisphere countries," Mead asserted.

Meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt plans to make a radio speech to the nation within a few days explaining legislation which became law yesterday. The chief executive made it plain that he expects to provide help for both Greece and China, as well as Britain.

Aid To Be Started
Some members of congress said that a group of fast mosquito boats may be started for England Monday to aid in fighting the U-boat menace and regarded transfer of additional destroyers as inevitable.

The 200-merchant ship program recently authorized by congress will be utilized to aid Britain. It was reported, while more airplanes and ammunition and weapons of many kinds will be dispatched across the Atlantic.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was said at the White House, will break down the proposed $7,000,000,000 request into eight to 10 categories. Because of a desire for military secrecy, however, the exact number of planes and weapons of various kinds may be kept from congress and the public.

deliberate efforts to "confuse, mystify and inject poison into the defense setup." He said that Kaundsen, Hillman and their associates will continue to function as provocateurs in accelerating converted industries to maximum military productivity.

There was a thinly veiled suggestion emanating from sources close to the White House that personal jealousies are responsible for current reports of dissension.

New Dealers in and out of permanent jobs, it was implied, are spreading many of the rumors because they do not concur in certain major O. P. M. policies and because they fear they may lose their own status.

General Finney Taken By Death

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 12.—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Brig-Gen. Maurice E. Finney, 74, Harrisburg, former commander of trains and military police of the 28th division during the World War and one of the original organizers of the Harrisburg National banked yesterday after an extended illness.

His military career started in 1908 when he enlisted in Harrisburg's famed City Grays. Later he was commissioned a captain and assigned to Co. H, 11th Infantry, and served in the Mexican war as a captain of Co. I of the same regiment. He was promoted to brigadier-general in 1930.

LEASE-LEND BILL SIGNING GIVES NAVY PROBLEMS

Items nor would they reveal whether they included any naval equipment.

The navy still has 119 overage destroyers, a number of long-range petrol bombers and 115 small craft that could be used as submarine chasers for the British fight against the Nazi U-boat menace.

Naval sources speculated on the possibility that President Roosevelt may order the gradual transfer of 15 of the overage destroyers to England.

They pointed out that 15 new and modern destroyers will be completed this year. Thus the president, they argued, could lease or lend a like amount of the old destroyers to Britain and still have them replaced by newer and faster ships before the calendar year ends.

Strength Of Navy
The present strength of the navy, including ships on hand and vessels on order, follows:

Type	On hand	On order
Battleships	15	17
Aircraft carriers	6	12
Cruisers	37	54
Destroyers	160	204
Submarines	105	80

Total 323 367 690
(*Includes 74 overage destroyers.)

The 74 overage destroyers have been reconditioned and now are with fleet units. In addition, the navy has 45 other overage destroyers which have been used as sea-plane tenders and small troop transports for the marines. The latter ships could quickly be refitted as destroyers, officials said.

The navy also has 115 various small craft, including private yachts taken over and armed, that could be used as submarine chasers. Some officers attached significance to the fact that the White House has asked congress for appropriations for 294 ships to be completed by the end of this year. This would allow transfer of some small ships to Britain if the president desired. It was reported that a number of mosquito boats may be given Britain.

Naval strategists refused to discuss the use of American ports as repair bases for British war vessels. It was generally believed in informed circles, however, that the vigilance of the Atlantic neutrality patrol would be redoubled. Precautions already have been taken to prevent sabotage.

Character Witnesses

Other witnesses for the defense were for the most part witnesses who testified to Dixon's reputation as a troublemaker. They included Joe Patton, Henry Dunlap, Mrs. Mary Dunlap, Constable R. B. Morrow, James Doster, Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Hazel Southworth, Dr. Edwin S. Cooper, who treated Mrs. Dixon for injuries. The Commonwealth then presented witnesses who testified that Dixon was a law-abiding citizen. These included Bennie Dixon, William Hawkins, William Lawson, R. Challenger and Owen Harden.

Unless there is more "after-discovered testimony" to present by the Commonwealth, or the defense cares to reopen its case to rebut Commonwealth testimony, the case should be argued by counsel this afternoon. It is possible that the charge to the jury will not come until Thursday morning.

This jury is the first jury ever to use the new bedrooms in the jury rooms. They have slept in the rooms each night since the case began, and are being fed at the Y. W. C. A.

Aim Of United States

Washington, March 12.—Formally calling upon congress for the vast sum of $7,000,000,000, to finance the lend-lease program, President Roosevelt this afternoon declared it to be "the fixed policy of this government to make for democracies every gun, plane and munition of war that we possibly can."

In a letter to Speaker Rayburn, the president transmitted the budget estimates to cover the program which will convert the United States into an arsenal for England, Greece and other opponents of the Axis powers.

As the chief executive itemized the defense fund, $2,054,000,000 will be expended for aircraft and accessories, $629,000,000 will be expended for vessels of all types, $1,350,000,000 will be dispatched in the form of agricultural and $1,343,000,000 will be spent for ordnance, including armor and ammunition.

The president also disclosed to congress that he expects to spend $200,000,000 for reconditioning and repairing "any defense articles" in American yards for the British government. It is under this clause of the lend-lease act that the United States may refit British destroyers and other men of war.

Tanks, armored cars, automobiles, trucks, and other automotive vehicles will be turned out in the amount of $362,000,000, he said. Facilities and equipment for the manufacture of all these defense articles will cost $732,000,000, according to the estimates.

REPORT BOMBS AGAIN FALL ON GROUNDS AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE

taken shelter within the palace and were not hurt. Several months ago bombs fell on the palace grounds, causing considerable damage.

Cathedral Damaged
Authorities also permitted revelation today that during a recent Nazi raid on the South Wales Port of Cardiff, St. David's Cathedral, the bird institute and the royal infirmary were damaged.

Announcement that Buckingham palace had suffered new bomb hits followed another four-hour night raid on London, which ended half an hour after midnight.

An official announcement said one enemy bomber was shot down during the night, but later unofficial reports said three German bombers had been destroyed.

During the raid on the capital, most of the bombers were beaten off by heavy anti-aircraft fire which compelled them to drop their bomb loads on the shores of the Thames Estuary. Some, however, peppered London with incendiaries and explosives.

Various other sections of Britain also were attacked during the night. EDITOR'S NOTE: A Berlin announcement said German night raiders successfully attacked objectives at Birmingham and also at a port on the southeast English coast.)

Mrs. Smith, who resides at Sunset View Farms, near Saxonburg, likens her friends and listeners to trees and flowers, and each person went home wondering whether she was a weeping willow or a fire bush. She told of one eventful day in the country picking huckleberries, when a hermit two miles away decided to test his numerous guns and the shots entered the automobile of the speaker. Nevertheless, Mrs. Smith and her companion entered the woods and enjoyed the day picking gallons of huckleberries.

SPREADING THE DEFENSE WORK

DEFENSE administrators are wise in starting a systematic effort to spread the work on armament contracts among small concerns in order to get it done quickly. Incidentally, this policy should promote employment and a wider distribution of wages throughout the country. But the chief advantage will be prevention of production jams.

It is stated that 90 per cent of defense contracts, amounting to 10 billion dollars, have gone to 600 large manufacturers. This was not a case of unfair discrimination, since these plants were best equipped for their tasks.

It is estimated that about 200,000 concerns in the United States are able to play some part in the production program. Yet it is said that half the country's machine tools are idle or in use less than eight hours a day. Harnessing these smaller plants to the defense program will be the special job of a new division of the OPM. Regional meetings will be held to stimulate subcontracting.

Laymen may wonder why this policy of enlisting small industries was not adopted before. But the main thing is that thousands of machine shops, foundries and factories are now to make their contribution to the great national enterprise in which all should be eager to have a share.

FIRST NEW STAR IN FLAG

First new state to enter the Union after the adoption of the Constitution, Vermont is celebrating the 150th anniversary of that event.

Vermont was settled by grants of land from New Hampshire, New York claimed the territory, and Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain Boys defended the grants from the territorial claims of New York, and had established a separate political entity the year after the Declaration of Independence was proclaimed. Her farmers fought in the Revolution, but the Continental Congress refused her plea for admission as a state.

When the Constitution was adopted by the Philadelphia convention she was still the Green Mountain Republic and not one of the 13 states. But the year that the Bill of Rights was adopted found Vermont in the Union and a 14th star in the flag.

ADDRESS UNKNOWN

Figuratively speaking, royalty has been on the run for years. But there was nothing figurative in the spring which former King Carol of Rumania and his red-haired companion Magda Lupescu took from Seville to somewhere in Portugal. That was the real thing.

Actually it was a postponed lap of a relay race begun last September when Carol and Magda fled Bucharest in the nick of time to escape imprisonment or worse, probably worse. With them was the king's chamberlain, Ernest Urdareanu. The party was detained by Spanish authorities at Madrid, presumably on orders from Berlin. Held in "protective custody," that euphemism for political incarceration, they lived under guard at a Madrid hotel until they were allowed to go to Seville. Since then the exiled monarch and his consort have been whiling away the hours as best they could, including afternoon drives, under police surveillance, in one of Carol's high-powered automobiles.

Then Carol stepped on the gas and outdistanced his pursuers. Although his address is unknown at present, he is believed to be somewhere in Portugal, waiting for a chance to get to America. Adresse unbekannt! That has a familiar ring, only for once the Nazis are the ones who are in the dark.

NEW REALMS FOR TRAVEL

In 1940, according to figures of the department of commerce, money spent in Europe by travelers from the United States was, for the first time in many years, less than that spent by European visitors to this country.

This is, of course, due to the war. Americans can't get into the war-torn or occupied countries just for the pleasure of travel. Those with real business—such as newspaper correspondents, special observers, and so on—are still going over, but with ever-increasing limitations on their activities.

In the meanwhile new travel areas are opening up for them. There is the north-and-south movement between the two American continents. There is also the increase in travel within the United States, stimulated by the fairs held on the two coasts last year and the year before, and also by the opening of new national park areas.

When the war is over there will no doubt be a revival of travel to the Old World. But it is hardly likely that travel within America will drop off much. Too many citizens here have been too delighted with their discovery of the scenic and historic offerings of their own land and the endless opportunity for enjoyment the year around.

REACTION IN READING

The Census Bureau is no arbiter of literary tastes, but as an informant on what books are buying it has its points.

Judging from its report for 1939, the nation was more serious in its reading that year than commonly. While the production of Bibles was showing a marked increase, fiction was suffering a heavy decline, falling from 25,454,135 volumes in 1937 to 13,511,181 volumes in 1939. A comparable decline was shown for textbooks for school use although these continued to form the largest single group in the bureau's classification.

The one volume people were buying most frequently continued to be the Book of Books. Complete Bibles to the number of 2,348,069 were published in that year, in addition to 1,268,614 Testaments, 3,361,234 volumes giving parts of the Bible less than complete Testaments, 969,931 biblical volumes not classified by titles.

Indeed, books on religion, philosophy, history and biography and solid reference books outnumbered works of fiction by more than 4,000,000 volumes.

Books on religion and philosophy outnumbered books on science and technology by about 2 to 1, but they also outnumbered books on history by about 3 to 1. Books on history, however, outnumbered books on sociology and economics by almost 3 to 1.

A commentator wants to know what grandfather would have made of the word snip. Just about as much as his grandson could make of the word giddap.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD'S WAY OF COMBATING INFERIORITY

The child, like everybody else, must show off. Otherwise he will be overwhelmed with feelings of inferiority. When, however, he has learned to get on well with others, and cause them to like him, they don't think of him as showing off. It's all a matter of how secure he feels and how others respond to him.

The adult who relates a personal experience in a way to delight the listener is expressing himself too. We don't accuse the artist of showing off whose picture is on display at the art exhibit; nor the musician, for entertaining us with song and symphony; nor the housewife, for cooking us a toothsome meal. Nevertheless, these are socially accepted ways of self-realization.

Audience Reaction

But if a person relates an experience awkwardly and keeps on at it, despite the unfavorable reaction of his auditors; if he goes on singing and playing on an instrument when he knows his listeners are being bored or annoyed; or continues in any other way to try to gain attention in defiance of unfavorable response, he is considered a show-off; and he most certainly is if he resorts to smart-aleck remarks or monkey-shine performances.

Any one will say a child of three or four is showing off before guests if he shows them one toy after another, turns somersaults, or bangs upon the piano. Generally the child has been trained in these practices by his parents. They are subconsciously being the center of attention through their child. They want compliments for the child because they get credit for his smartness.

Of course it is both natural and right for fathers and mothers to be proud of their children. But allowing a tot to be a nuisance to guests is not helping him toward later social success. A boy who forces himself on people will grow to be a boring man.

Attractive Self-Expression

If, for instance, you induce your tot of five to take some of the wraps as the guests arrive, find them seats, help to serve them refreshments, or minister to their comforts in some other way, the guests will be pleased and impressed with the youngster and he will have an opportunity to express himself in a socially accepted manner.

Many a parent will say to the child, from six to nine, "Play for them" or "Show them how you can dance." If the guest realizes that this will encourage the child in his lessons they won't interpret it as showing off. However, I fail to see much educational value in solo dancing, except for the unorthodox, awkward child.

Showing off is worthy when it encourages self-denial, self-sacrifice, and ambition. But we should encourage children not to be self-conscious, then they will be effortlessly charming and will get attention without demanding it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. What is a good way to prevent and reduce tattling?

A. Quit rewarding the tattler. When you punish a child as a result of the information you gained from the one who tattled on him, you approve the tattler and richly compensate him. No fun to tattling unless you can see some one get punished.

The World and the Mud Puddles

WHAT COURTS WONT DO

Turning from words to deeds, the Council of State Governments at its fifth general assembly at Washington, D. C., has launched a clear-cut program to eliminate the trade barriers which, since early depression years have hindered commerce, fomented ill-will and foolish interstate tariff wars.

California to its credit, is preparing to open fire on these blockades. Already in the State Assembly is a bill providing for full and complete reciprocity for all foreign commercial vehicles entering California, provided the vehicle is registered within five days.

The Western States are a natural economic unit within the bigger unit of the nation. It is only common-sense that neighbor states who must have commerce with each other in order to survive and prosper—as the Founding Fathers themselves insisted—should not tolerate tariff walls, customs fees, or any other handicaps which inflict injury upon all.

The "come-in-and-get-out" permit issued at the port of every machine overlooks the fact that the visiting passenger car or commercial carrier contributes to highway funds on a mileage basis in proportion to the weight of the vehicle, not only trade but good will among states and a sense of that solidarity which united states should have.

California's measure to ensure full and complete reciprocity to the motor transport vehicles of other states which similarly honor California's is an important step in the drive to restore to its full vigor the world's greatest free trade area, the United States of America.

DIPLOMACY

A small boy was asked to dine at the home of a distinguished friend of the family. His mother questioned him as to how he had behaved on his return home.

"You are sure you didn't do anything that was not perfectly polite?" she asked.

"No, nothing to speak of," he answered.

"Then you did do something?"

"Well, while I was trying to cut the meat, it slipped off on to the floor. But I made it all right," he replied.

"What did you do?"

Too Much Talk Better Than None
Ohio Congressman Makes Remarks
Didn't Refer To Lend-Lease Bill

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Robert T. Secret, Ohio congressman, wasn't referring to the aid-Britain bill when he said, "Too much speech-making is better than none." Answering a critic's complaint that our national legislators are over-adicted to oratory, he dropped that remark last December, before the lease-lend measure was under discussion on Capitol Hill.

Nevertheless, quite a few of our lawmakers are quoting the Ohioan in response to attacks, by some of the bill's proponents, upon its opponents, on the ground that the latter have talked against it excessively. In part, too, the quoting's being done by solons who favored the lease-lend plan all along. They wanted it to get a majority, but they don't think it would have been right to rag its opposition spokesmen.

Defenders of the principle of a maximum of free expression in our senate and house of representatives make the point that there's a minimum of it, or not a bit, in the totalitarian countries' apologies for national assemblies. That, according to sympathizers with the Secret doctrine, is what makes such countries totalitarian. If our two chambers aren't careful not to muzzle their minorities, the Secret theorists argue, we'll be traveling in the totalitarian direction ourselves.

The 100 per cent lease-lenders in Washington, to be sure, took the position that their opposition's scheme was to delay the bill's adoption out of pure cussedness. They weren't afraid, any of the time, that it wouldn't go through, unimportantly amended. But they were in a hurry, and the other side was so vocal that they had to keep postponing an out-and-out vote on it. They accused the "antis" of mere filibustering, just to bother 'em all they could.

Sounding Board

Now, the lease-lend program's opponents have made out a pretty good case back of their denial that delay's all they've been campaigning for. What had they to gain by delay alone? They've known, as well as the lease-lenders have, that the bill finally would pass, slightly modified. They've wanted a full opportunity, however to denounce it in front of a Capitol Hill sounding board, for the sake of the effect on the country back home. And the word that's pointed in Washington from out in the sticks, has hinted to them, and to the lease-lenders likewise, that they've done a fairly competent job. That's what has made the lease-lenders so sore and kept the "antis" so cocky.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, notoriously, that's the word the lease-lenders use to organize the "antis" fight. And didn't he do it to perfection! Ask the lease-lenders if you've any doubts about it. They'd have him drawn and quartered if they could. Dear reader, you may think, also, that he ought to be electrocuted for doing it, but you can't but admire his technique. Some of our keep-out-of-war leaders have been rather bungling and made themselves ridiculous. But not Burton K. He can be hated, but he's no joke.

As a supporter of Senator Wheeler, perhaps Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts raised more ladies than any other single solon, with his speech in opposition to the transfer of any additional warships to Britain. That's because he's chairman of the senate's naval affairs committee; therefore an authority on the subject of the maritime armament we can't spare.

Anti-administration statesmen like Senators Capper, H. Johnson, Shipstead, Nye, Taft and Vandenberg don't count so much. They're Republicans and partially belong in the anti-administration column.

These All Count
But Senators Wheeler, Walsh, Burton K. Gillette, McCarran and Reynolds signify a whole lot. They're Democrats, thus administration bolters on a super-vital issue.

Senator LaFollette isn't exactly a bolter, for he's a Progressive, not a Democrat. Yet he's been a New Dealer. But he couldn't stand for the lease-lend proposition, so he's a bolter, in a way.

Even Senator Norris, the New Dealerist Independent ever invented said he didn't object to warning President Roosevelt not to send any of our soldier boys to war abroad. He's slightly a bolter, too.

Simmered down, is or isn't "too much speech-making better than none?"

The Gap Is Enormous

WASHINGTON, March 12.

TO those who believe that the gravity of the British situation is such that every other consideration should give way before the necessity of speed in production, the conditions surrounding the American defense effort are deeply disturbing. Now that the lease-lend bill has been enacted, it may be possible more effectively to center attention upon a state of affairs which constitutes a greater threat to the national program than all the isolationists' fifth columnists and Communists in the country.

THIS somewhat sweeping statement is based upon two indisputable facts, clear to every observer in Washington and of which every disinterested man in the defense organization is entirely aware. The first of these is the really awful confusion which clogs the wheels and practically paralyzes anything resembling efficiency. It is true that in so vast an undertaking some confusion is inevitable, but not the kind of confusion that exists in Washington today. Its character and its extent are beyond anything heretofore seen. It can be appreciated only by those in contact with it. Primarily, it is due to the overwhelming fact that there is no single boss with both power and responsibility to direct the job.

AT the start the obvious impossibility was pointed out of the President, with the tremendous weight of other things on his shoulders, personally dealing with the details of the defense program and making the many daily decisions which must be made. Yet, steadfastly, he has declined to delegate this power. First, he tried to operate through a commission with no head, but when the resulting mess was apparent he shifted to the two-headed organization which has now been set up. The mess is worse than before.

EVERY day it becomes clearer that Mr. Knudsen is not the boss, and that Mr. Hillman is not the boss. Yoked together by the President, they try terribly hard to present the appearance of a team, but it is impossible to disguise the fact that they are pulling in different directions. Mr. Knudsen is primarily concerned about production, while Mr. Hillman, paid by his labor union is primarily concerned about the "rights of labor," slipping labor clauses into army contracts and otherwise insisting that there shall be no "backward step" while his friend, Mr. Philip Murray, the CIO chieftain, denounces industry as greedy and selfish.

STRIKES which retard production, and with which the Government fails to deal firmly, afflict the work all over the country. One of these was deliberately encouraged by Mrs. Roosevelt, and the President recently.

TOMORROW
Tomorrow I am sure will bring
Some event worth witnessing.
So at evening this I pray:
Let me live another day.

Eagerly the dawn I wait
With its fascinating freight
Anxious, as a child, to see
What new charm it holds for me.

Yesterday I've lived to know,
Now today is soon to go.
What tomorrow's lot may be
I would be on hand to see.

Every night I pray to know
What tomorrow's close may show.
Always this I think and say:
Let me live another day!

What Noted People Say

WASHINGTON—William C. Bullitt, former American ambassador to France, analyzes American defense efforts.

"We are producing a 20 foot rope to do a 30 foot job."

NEW YORK—Jim Farley, former chairman of the Democrats, makes a pointed political observation:

"I believe in a two-party system. I want to see the Republican party get strong—but not too strong."

SEATTLE—Verne Marshall, chairman of the no foreign war committee, believes American entrance into the war is inevitable.

"Soon we will be at war—that is the plan."

NEW ORLEANS—Secretary of the navy Frank Knox sums up America's position:

"We are safe now only because of two factors—the British sea power and the British air power."

Announce Public Hearing On Measure To Repeal Local Milk Ordinances

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, March 12—Opposition to the House-enacted bill to repeal local milk ordinances conflicting with state regulations increased today as a flood of protests descended on state senators, bolstered by the opposition of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor.

In view of the numerous protests, Senator George B. Scarlett, Chester Republican who heads the Senate agriculture committee, announced a public hearing on the measure for March 26.

The Moul-Wooding dairy bill passed the House last week by a substantial majority. Its sponsors said it held the support of the great majority of dairy farmers. The bill would repeal local ordinances regulating the production of milk, placing supervision in the hands of the state.

Protests have been received from many cities complaining that enactment of the bill would wipe out stringent local laws regulating milk production without any guarantee of comparable supervision by the state department of health. Among those opposing the measure is Dr. John J. Shaw, state secretary of health.

The opposition of the state A. F. of L. was expressed in a communication from President James L. McDevitt to the legislative director of the Pennsylvania commercial drivers conference, asking the labor organization to state its stand on the bill.

McDevitt said that after analyzing the bill the P. F. of L. decided officially to oppose enactment. "Passage would 'lower present health standards,' stated McDevitt, adding that he had been advised that there were only six state inspectors available to cover the entire dairy field in the commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

Maud Siemons, who is a patient in Youngstown hospital, north side, suffering from a broken leg. Miss Siemons is a cousin of the Calderwoods.

The town folks are very grateful to the senior Scout, who got up early Sunday morning, hitched "Old Dobbin" to the snow plow and cleared alleys and driveways of the deep snow that fell Saturday night. It sure saved a lot of backaches. Thanks, Wayne.

Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative for Lawrence county, met with the class at the home of Mrs. Ruby Zimmerman, on Tuesday afternoon, with slip-covers as the main study. The next meeting will be an all-day one with tureen dinner at noon, at the Zimmerman home.

The Mission Circle of United Presbyterian church held a meeting at the home of Miss Fay Wilcox on Friday evening for the purpose of electing officers. Those elected were as follows: president, Mrs. Martha Cowden; vice president, Mrs. John Holzman; secretary, Mrs. Carl Woolford; mission treasurer, Mrs. Laird Whiting; circle treasurer, Mrs. Guy VanMeter. A social time was afterwards enjoyed, the hostess serving dainty refreshments.

ly, in a press conference, said he did not regard them as serious. At the time he said this there were twenty-three strikes under way and three more took place the following day. At his next press conference Mr. Roosevelt conceded that the strike situation was serious and indicated he was contemplating doing something about it. Meanwhile, the defense organization lingers along without real direction, a great, amorphous, sprawling, uncoordinated body, the divisions of which tumble over each other and the incompetency of which strains the patience of those who best appreciate the "awful urgency" of the job they are trying to do.

OF course, progress is being made. Many vast contracts have been awarded. Aeroplanes, guns, tanks, ships, powder, etc., are being manufactured and sent out. Immense sums of money are being spent. A great deal of good work is being done. However, there is an enormous gap between what is being done and what could be done under an intelligent, coordinated setup. It is this gap which appalls those in position to appraise it. Every man in position to see knows it exists and deplores it.

MR. BULLITT, close to the President, speaks of it but evasively attributes it to the fact that the nation is not yet aroused to the point of using its full strength. Others insist it is due to the recalcitrancy of labor; others to the greed of industry; others to the delay of the Senate in passing the lend-lease bill. Extremely few place the blame where it really belongs—on the complacent Mr. Roosevelt, who cannot be induced to profit by the experience of the past and insists upon a machinery of his own contrivance which clearly will not work.

THERE is not a thoughtful and informed man here who does not know this to be the fact. They say so privately, but not publicly—for two reasons: one is that most men are afraid; the other is the general disposition to support the President, whose direction is as right as his methods are confused. If we actually get into war, perhaps it will be impossible to tell the truth about these things. But we are not at war now and it seems a particularly unpatriotic form of cowardice to know the situation and not point it out. It is quite obvious that the present setup will not last. What the next arrangement will be, no one can tell, but already there have been at least three new forms of organization suggested by journalistic reflectors of Administration thought. The second reason for concern over the defense program will be dealt with in another article.

Murray Seeks To Open Negotiations With U. S. Steel

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 12—Philip Murray, CIO president and chairman of the steel workers organizing committee, today served notice on the management of fourteen "big steel" subsidiary companies that his organization desires to open negotiations for a new contract affecting 261,000 employees.

This move was significant, in view of the action yesterday of John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers in demanding a wage increase for 450,000 soft-coal miners. The miners' contract with the coal producers expires at midnight March 31 at a time when Murray's negotiations with U. S. Steel Corp. are expected to reach a climax.

Steel and coal are regarded as the two most important basic industries bearing on national defense.

Truck Driver Is Freed Of Charges

(International News Service)

COUDERSPORT, Pa., March 12.—An all-male jury in Potter county court today had acquitted Chester W. Coons, 58, Coudersport truck driver, of involuntary manslaughter charges growing out of the truck automobile collision which last fall caused the deaths of the father and aunt of Thomas J. O'Boyle, 1940 Tulane university football captain.

The jurors returned the verdict after two hours' deliberation. Thomas O'Boyle, 53, Gary, Ind., and Mrs. Mary Strickland, 46, Woodward, Okla., were killed and O'Boyle's son, James, 18, driver, and wife, Mrs. Thomas O'Boyle, were injured in the crash October 10 en route to New York to witness the Tulane-Fordham game.

Ecclesian Club Discuss Events

It was announced that the annual picnic for the club will be held during the month of June.

The social meeting for March, will not be held, due to the season of Lent, but the next regular business meeting will take place on April 8.

Library Report Given To Board At March Meeting

Girl Scouts Are Granted Use Of Library Assembly Room For Leader Course

Report of local library activities for the month of February was presented to the board of trustees, at their March session, in the library building, by Miss Alice Sterling, librarian.

The report indicated that 170 books had been added during the month and 178 new borrowers had signed cards. There was a total circulation of 20,633 for the month, making the daily average circulation of books 897. A total of 2,229 persons used the library reading rooms, during the month, according to the report.

Permission was granted to the Girl Scout Council to use the assembly room at the library, Thursday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock, for eight weeks. A training course for leaders will be conducted by Miss Helen McLean, director of Girl Scout work here.

The board received, with regret, the resignation of Mrs. Gladys Kyle, who has served for many years as secretary to Miss Sterling. Miss Gail Nelson, of this city, was elected to fill the vacancy on the staff.

Authorization was given by the board for the purchase of four fire extinguishers for use in the library building.

Hints On Etiquette

Air Crashes To Undergo Probing

(International News Service)

Others named were Rep. Pearson (D., Tenn.), Kleberg (D., Tex.), Dirksen (R., Ill.), and Hinchshaw (R., Calif.).
The committee expects to visit the scenes of recent airline disasters and interrogate witnesses. It also will seek to determine if existing federal aviation regulations are in need of overhauling.

Meanwhile, the Senate air safety committee, headed by Sen. Withdraw Bill Affecting Judges

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 12.—The proposed bill of Rep. Francis J. Falkenstein (D.), Philadelphia, to prevent judges from running on more than one ballot, today was withdrawn from consideration by the House democratic majority.
The measure, which was to have been introduced in the legislature this week, proposed to extend the provisions of the anti-raiding law to judges. Under the present act against party raiding members of the judiciary are specifically excluded.

Falkenstein's measure, abandoned after a caucus of the 36 Philadelphia democratic members of the House delegate, would outlaw the practice of preventing judges from becoming candidates in more than one party primary.
In effect, the bill would have barred seven Philadelphia judges coming up for new terms this year, from filing on more than one party ballot.

Legion's Birth Observed Here

Perry S. Gaston Post Has Program Commemorating Event Tuesday Evening

PLANS MADE FOR ANNUAL BANQUET

Perry S. Gaston post, American Legion, observed the 22nd anniversary of the founding of this great World War organization in connection with the semi-monthly meeting of the post in the post rooms in the Legion Home, Tuesday evening.

After a brisk business session, which was featured by plans for the national commander's banquet here on April 1, when National Commander Milo C. Warner of Toledo, O., will be guest of the legionnaires of the 26th district, and lesser matters, a program of entertainment was enjoyed.

The history of the founding of the American Legion, and the steps which led up to it, was given by Charles E. Allen. Tribute was paid to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who gave birth to the idea at a dinner meeting in Paris, attended by a group of officers assembled to devise ways of keeping the soldiers busy and entertained following the signing of the armistice. This led to the Paris Caucus on March 15, 1919, and was followed by the St. Louis Caucus in May, 1919, when final plans for the formation of the American Legion were completed. It was officially chartered in October, 1919, the speaker recalled.

A. T. Kissinger, local Spanish war veteran, recited an original poem, composed at the time of the World War, and sang a song of his own composition.

Hawaiian numbers were contributed by Mrs. Jane Kammerer, Clifford Shoup and Howard Montgomery, followed by some stirring bagpipe music by Ian MacCowan, a member of Sir Douglas Haig post, British War Veterans, of Youngstown, and James Dunn, member of the Edith Cavell post of the Beaver Valley.

A large number of British World War veterans were present at the meeting, which was concluded by a tasty lunch, served by the kitchen committee.

General Chairman Ches C. Sweeney of the National Commander's Banquet committee announced that National Commander Milo C. Warner will be here all day on April 1, and plans are being made for a luncheon at noon, when the Gaston post will play host to business, industrial and political leaders of the community.

It was voted to subscribe for 100 shares of stock in the Ne-Ca Novelty company, sponsored by the Junior Achievement unit here, and the post promised its cooperation in backing the organization, designed to promote the business initiative of the youth of the city.

Blind People Go On 'Sightseeing' Airplane Trip

(International News Service) SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 12.—Twenty sightless Salt Lake residents recently were guests of an air line on a "sightseeing" trip over the city. Though not one of them was able to tell anything about the trip except what they sensed by sound or feeling, all described it as "the thrill of a lifetime."

The flight was arranged by officials of the air line and the state blind commission. Before taking off, the guests were allowed to spend an hour touching every part of the plane to acquaint themselves with its construction.

Altogether they were kept informed of what went on below by an attendant who answered questions and described the terrain over which they flew.

Neighborhood House Gives Demonstration

Class Members Demonstrate Work At Meeting Of Americanization Board

Americanization Board met at the Neighborhood House on a recent evening for a short business session, when the Sunday school, under the direction of Jay Allsworth, and the day classes, with Christine Butler in charge, gave a demonstration of their regular work.

The orchestra composed of Roy McClendon, Rose Brazza, Vivian Jacob, Virginia Jacob, James Brazza, Donnie Williams and Dale McKissick played several selections. Donna Dean Smith, as chairman of the devotional committee, introduced those taking part in the Sunday school program, as follows: Bible reading, Martha Joseph; solo Rose Brazza; prayer, Rose Jacob, Donna Dean Smith; solo, Roy McClendon; Bible drill, choruses in charge of Jean Butler.

Samples of work in two sewing classes were exhibited, including a scarf made by Margaret Rozak of the beginners, two quilt tops by Sadie Othites and Elizabeth and Eleanor Rozak, and work of the embroidery circle. These classes are learning verses and choruses, also.

The work of the Missionary Scrap Book club was presented by their teacher, Mary Lee Bell, who displayed some of the books. High points of the old testament will be illustrated when their first book is finished. This class numbers 23.

Mrs. Russell Muder gave an account of the work of the music class. Sadie Othites, a member of the class is the Sunday school pianist and orchestra accompanist.

In classes taught by Jean Butler, the women's English class was represented by Mrs. Helen Kozlowski who told of the interest of the 24 women in the class and how they are being taught not only the questions they need to learn, but things they want to know about our country and how they can be loyal citizens.

Roy McClendon told of the Junior league and how the Bible work is helping the boys and girls. An anti-cigarete playlet was presented by five boys and girls of the Loyal Temperance league, Donnie Williams, Eugenia Othites, Marian Thomas, Louise Charles and James Brazza.

Four boys and girls, representing the child evangelism classes, recited Bible verses and sang choruses. They were June Lewis, Moses Jacob, Billie and John Comianas.

Mrs. Sylvia Jacob, who has grown up in the Neighborhood House, accepting Christ under the teaching of Mrs. D. E. Balph, told of what the Bible study class means to her and other adults, as well as how it is helping the younger members to be witnesses for Christ in their homes.

French Johnson, president of the board, gave a short talk at the close of the demonstration.

Valentines have been received from the Victory Bible class, St. John's Lutheran church. They were presented to the Neighborhood House by Miss Mary Riffer and Miss Anna Bolinger and were given to the members of the music class, girl's scrap book club and Bible study class. Christmas cards have been received from Mrs. Harry Sanford, magazines have been given by Miss Hannah Walker, and magazines and quilt patches have been given by Mrs. C. E. Book.

FIFTH WARD CLUB Members of the Fifth Ward Senior Girls' club will meet in the club rooms on Pollock avenue Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. New officers will be elected.

C. M. T. C. Camps Are Suspended

No Training Will Be Offered Youths This Summer Because Of Defense Plans

Word has been received from the commandant of the Third Corps Area at Baltimore, that all Citizens Military Training Camps have been suspended this year due to the huge military training program now going on in the country. Dr. W. F. Jackson, local chairman, announced today.

Several applications for admission to the camps have already been received by Dr. Jackson, but have been returned to the senders.

These training camps will not be resumed until the suspension of the present training program, and if selective service training continues in the future, it is unlikely that they will be resumed. However, no definite statement in this regard has been received here.

Drive To Stamp Out Vice Centers Near Camps

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 12.—In a determined drive to stamp out vice centers near army camps, the war department soon will ask congress for drastic legislation to place these areas under strict federal control, informed sources said today.

Bills now being prepared by War Secretary Stimson and selective service legal experts, if approved, will:

1. Make prostitution a federal offense and provide stern penalties for it.

2. Empower camp and post commanders to compel local civilian authorities to close down certain designated shady establishments.

As well as being motivated by moral considerations, medical officers regard these regulations as essential if social diseases are to be held to a minimum in the expanding forces.

The incidence of these ailments in the army at present is only 40 cases per 1,000 soldiers—the lowest in history. On the civilian side, however, the picture is not so encouraging.

Of the draftees who have been rejected for physical reasons so far, six per cent have been for venereal diseases, compared with only 1.3 percent during the World War draft.

Medical men point out that much of this difference is accounted for by present better methods of detecting the diseases. They admit, however, that there is evidence these illnesses may be on the increase among the civilian population.

Every precaution is now being taken to see that men suffering from these diseases are not taken into the army. When an infected man is discovered, he is ordered to secure treatment and is not accepted until he is completely cured.

The other phase of the problem is to see that the men do not get infected after they have been placed in uniform.

"It is a major problem and must be dealt with vigorously," one officer explained. "Prostitution and red light districts are now under only state and local control, subject to political protection and graft. We feel they can better be dealt with by federal authorities."

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Dr. Frederick G. Banting is dead. Thousands are alive today because of Dr. Banting.

His vision, determination, faith led to the discovery of insulin.

Insulin is not a cure for diabetes. But it gives the diabetic a chance to live an almost normal life.

Before Dr. Banting's discovery, a lingering death awaited diabetics. The story of insulin is one of the most dramatic in history.

Dr. Banting was an obscure country doctor in western Ontario.

A pancreatic extract to him suggested relief for diabetes.

He endured ridicule, rebuffs, failures and discouragements.

Two years of constant labor led to his historic discovery.

For insulin, Dr. Banting won the Nobel prize and a knighthood.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

This, March 12th, is the anniversary of the birth of a great poet, novelist, playwright, idol of Italy, and one of the most remarkable men who ever drew breath—a genius, fantastic, inexplicable—Gabriel D'Annunzio. I don't think that any son of Adam now alive has led a stranger life than this fiery soldier-of-fortune and master of arts, Gabriel D'Annunzio.

He lived the life of a recluse in the melodious silences of the Lake Garda estate presented to him by the Italian government. At 16, he won recognition as a poet. Later he wrote such novels as "The Flame of Life" and the "Triumph of Death," and such dramas as "La Daemona" and "The Martyrdom of St. Sebastian."

Eleanora Duse acted in his plays and wept her heart out when his love turned cold. The very soul of patriotism, D'Annunzio leaped into the war, learned to fly at 51 and blazed his fame around the world with one amazing exploit after another.

He led bombing planes on raids into Austria. In a small boat he

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Plastic surgery today keeps a deformed person from going through life a marked man with an appearance that makes him feel inferior and humiliated.

Of course, most such deformities are of the congenital variety. By that we mean that they were acquired before birth. So, naturally the thing to do is correct these deformities at an early age before the child has himself become aware of them.

Some of these deformities that we are born with can be corrected very shortly after birth. Harelip, for example. That should be corrected within the first couple of weeks of life and sometimes it can be done within the first twenty-four hours. This is desirable, because, among other things, a baby as small as this suffers very little pain.

There is a little more difficulty about cleft palates. It usually isn't any use touching these before the child is a year and a half or two years of age. The main aim, of course, is to see that the child suffers no defect of speech. Since the child seldom begins talking until about the age of two, this is the time chosen for the operation. We don't attempt it before that age because earlier in life the tissues at the roof of the mouth are too flimsy. There isn't enough formation of bone there earlier. Parents ought to be warned that even after this operation has been performed there is still much for them to do. It will take hours of speech training to make sure the child will have a satisfactory speaking voice.

Sometimes the deformity is in the body of the child, and when this is the case, if the operation will involve the legs or abdomen, it is wise to wait until the diaper stage is passed. This is because of the danger of infection. Of course your doctor may have reasons for advising otherwise. Do what he says. This includes, too, the taking of grafts from the upper part of the thigh and the lower abdomen for use in correcting facial faults.

Lop ears are a common and annoying deformity many people have today unnecessarily for they are easily corrected. By "lop-ears" I mean ears that do not set normally on either side of the head, but are twisted in appearance. If at all possible, this condition should be corrected before the child goes to school for otherwise he is sure to be teased about them.

Nasal deformities such as hump-nose or "saddle nose" seldom appear before adolescence. Some plastic surgeons indeed recommend that nose surgery be put off until adolescence is complete, as during that period the nose changes shape. However, for psychological considerations, particularly marked nasal deformities ought to be corrected in the teens.

Robins Are Slow Returning Says City Forester

Whistling of song sparrows, has been heard quite plainly, at day-break, last week, by Owen Fox, city forester, in the thicket, in the rear of the Cathedral.

The reason that this bird's song is not heard more in the early morning, states Mr. Fox, is because of its trait of perching high in the trees; also they raise their heads, and seem to be singing up into the heavens. All the early song sparrows, that he has seen at the commencement of spring, have invariably sang, looking toward the east, as if trying to urge the sun to come forth with its warm rays.

Strange to say, but very few robins have as yet put in an appearance. Mr. Fox has noticed for the past ten years, that robins have been seen in February hopping over the heavy snow.

It would be a sad plight, if the robins forgot to come back in this spring. This bird would be missed especially by our backyard gardeners, as the robin is a buddy of his, and his spade.

Lenten Service At St. Andrew's

St. Andrew's Episcopal church announces the following special service for the Third Sunday in Lent, March 13, 10 a.m., holy communion; 4:30 p.m., children's teaching services, with two classes, one teaching "The Christian Life in the Book of Common Prayer," and the other "The Church Catechism." Adults may also attend these classes. 7:30 p.m., penitential office and the short Southwell Litany. The choir will sing for an offertory, "The Old Rugged Cross." The special preacher will be Rev. J. J. McIlvaine, D.D., First Presbyterian church, New Castle.

Special preachers at the week day Lenten services, with the exception of the first service, are clergymen from other churches than the Episcopal church, it being felt that messages from ministers of other churches would tend to a greater feeling of fellowship and a better understanding of other Christian churches especially as unity between various Christian bodies is being discussed.

Camping Plans For Girl Scouts Are Being Discussed

Camp Savings Plan Will Be Opened For Girl Scouts Who Plan To Camp This Summer

Girl scouts and girl scout council members are discussing camping plans, of which budgeting for camp is of great concern to both groups. To help as many girls as possible meet the fees necessary to insure capable, well-trained staff and plentiful well-balanced meals, the council is instituting a camp savings plan. The camp bank will be officially opened at the girl scout office Wednesday, March 12, the national girl scout birthday at 4 o'clock, in the girl scout office. Saving stamps in quarter denominations may be purchased by any girl scout planning to go to Kiondashawa next summer. Weekly banking hours will be held Saturday mornings from 9 to 12 o'clock, throughout the spring.

Coinciding with the camp savings bank opening will be a meeting of the junior camp committee, members of last year's camp, who will share in the planning for 1941. Other scout activities include early adventuring out-of-doors, and practice in some of the special skills which make for good camping.

The selection of the best possible staff members, trained for their various jobs, the careful elimination of all health and safety hazards, the building of a program designed for each age group fitting its needs and desires, requires constant thought and early planning to insure success.

Day camp will be held in July at Cascade Park with Miss Margaret Ziminski as program director. Pending the further development of our own camp site, Camp Kiondashawa, will again be leased for two weeks following the day camp period. Miss Helen MacLean, local girl scout director will also direct the camp this summer.

Funeral services for Mrs. Joel Lininger, a former resident here, were held in the Presbyterian church on Monday afternoon. She had been making her home in Sharon with a son.

William Coulter, eldest son of Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Coulter, will be heard over the net-work of the program, "We the People" at New York on Tuesday evening, March 18, at 9 o'clock. He will tell of his electrical inventions.

A large group of friends and neighbors met Thursday evening at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Elder to welcome them back to the neighborhood. Mr. and Mrs. Elder and their daughter, Mrs. Grace Moore have been living in Volant.

Morning Doves At Gaston Park

While on his rounds through Gaston park, Owen Fox a few days ago discovered a new harbinger of spring.

Attracted by a peculiar fluttering sound coming from a hollow, he saw a pair of mourning doves winging up to a large oak, and perching on its skeleton "arms".

These birds were very noticeable in their new season dress, of a steelish blue caste, their spring costume. All birdlife has its peculiarities, and the sound of the mourning dove makes as it leaves the ground to soar aloft is very outstanding.

This bird, so beautiful in body and appearance, wastes no time in building its nest. Half a dozen sticks, laid cross cross, in the crotch of a limb, answers the purpose of a nest, and there is no difficulty in seeing the eggs laid thereon. Many of the eggs and fledglings are lost in stormy weather, because of the small protection afforded by the crude nest, which looks like a raft.

Natives of Anglo, Portuguese West Africa, wrap their food supply in grass, bind it securely, and attach it to the top of a pole to protect it from pigs and fowls.

British Official Escapes Bomb Explosion In Turkey

Five Persons Are Killed By Blast

George Rendel, Retiring Minister To Sofia Was Bomb Target

EXPLOSION OCCURS AT ISTANBUL HOTEL

ISTANBUL, March 12.—Turkish police today arrested four suspects as they investigated the bomb blast in an Istanbul hotel that narrowly missed taking the life of George Rendel, retiring British minister to Sofia.

Names of the arrested suspects were withheld by authorities. Five persons were killed by the explosion, caused when two high-powered bombs blew out the front of the Pera Palace Hotel. Two of the victims were hotel employees, two were policemen and the fifth was identified as the son of a former British commercial attaché at Ankara.

Dud Is Found Also
(The London Daily Express reported from Istanbul that a third bomb—a dud—was found among Rendel's luggage and that it was timed to explode while the British minister and his party were aboard the train en route to Istanbul.)

It was variously estimated this bomb weighed between 100 and 250 pounds, according to the express.

Six British diplomatic attaches were injured when the bombs exploded in what appeared to be an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Rendel. Four of the wounded were women formerly connected with the British legation in Sofia.

Bombs Explode
Rendel and his party arrived at the hotel last night from Sofia only ten minutes before bombs planted in suit cases exploded. Rendel and his daughter, Anne, escaped unhurt, although the girl suffered from shock.

The blasts blew out the front of the hotel, set it on fire and derailed three street cars. Thirty persons on one of the cars were injured.

Rendel told International News Service: "It was a regrettable incident. There was a terrible explosion. The entire front of the hotel was blown out and afterward a fire broke out. Three street cars in front of the hotel were blown off the tracks."

"Six members of the British mission were injured and four women were sent to a hospital. The only reason the entire mission was not killed was the fact we had gone upstairs when the explosions occurred."

Had it not been for the murder case now being tried in court room No. 1, the criminal court session would have been even shorter than they have been for the past year. The number of cases for this term is high but the number of pleas of guilty nearly as high.

Milk producers will meet in the court house Saturday night, permission having been given by the county commissioners to Homer Nicely to use court room No. 1 for that purpose. Milk producers from this county and perhaps Mercer and Beaver and Butler are expected to be present.

Work on the repairing of the annex is expected to start before the end of the week. Contracts have been let and preliminary work has been disposed of.

There appears little reason to believe that criminal court will go into its second week and the jury panel called for next Monday will probably be notified not to appear. Two minor cases remain on the docket after the murder case is disposed of.

Bus Strike In New York City In Third Day
(International News Service) NEW YORK, March 12.—As Manhattan's transportation-paralyzing bus strike moved into its third day, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia today planned to confer with Alan Haywood, C. I. O. regional director, in an attempt to break the deadlock that has tied up 1,300 buses and affected 1,000,000 commuters.

The strike, involving 3,500 members of the C. I. O. Transport Workers Union whose demands include an average 25 per cent wage increase, was called last Monday when union leaders failed to reach an agreement with the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. and the New York City Omnibus Corp., operators of 95 per cent of Manhattan's surface transportation.

Post-Gazette Strike Is Ended
(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, March 12.—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, after two days of suspended operations resulting from a walkout of outside circulators, resumed publication today.

An announcement published by the management stated: "At a special meeting of the newspaper unions council held Tuesday afternoon with the Pittsburgh Publishers association it was agreed that every union represented would carry out its contract. As a result of this assurance, the Post-Gazette announced immediately that publication would be resumed."

Outlook For Tigers Repeating Is Slim

Will Miss Hank Greenberg
If Uncle Sam Calls Him
For Draft, Pitchers
Not So Good

Tigers Won Last Year Because Indians Folded Up,
Yanks Will Be Dangerous Again

By LAWTON CARVER
LAKELAND, Fla., March 12.—The army draft, a rule which prevents a pennant-winner from making trades in the American league and apparent infirmities at key spots today team up in a triple-play combination expected to abruptly halt the Detroit Tigers' tenure as champions during the coming season. With a mad scramble among three or four clubs possible, the Tigers conceivably could repeat their triumph of last year, but nothing could be much farther from expectations in sun-splashed baseball circles down here.

The Tigers must be figured to remain in the first division, but all things considered, even their clumping completely out of the race would cause much less astonishment than Commissioner Landis getting a haircut.

Not Big Margin
That stacks up as a dismal, gloom-laden outlook for the champions, and for all anybody can tell at this stage of the proceedings, I may have overdone it. But let's go on from there.

The Tigers won last season by outlasting a Cleveland team that was disrupted by internal strife and an epidemic of nonsense, and a New York Yankee four-straight world series winner that cracked wide open. At that, the margin between the first place Tigers and the third place Yankees was only two games. Then they blew the world series to the Cincinnati Reds in four out of seven.

Get all that, then remember that the Tigers haven't been able to strengthen appreciably during the off-season because of the no-trade rule; the draft probably will catch up with Outfielder Hank Greenberg in July, removing from the lineup the league's home run champion and most valuable player, and they possibly will need a second baseman and a shortstop to supplant the rapidly-aging Charlie Gehringer and Dick Bartell.

Depend On Greenberg
The loss of Greenberg would just about blow the pennant away beyond immediate recall, and perhaps even shove the Tigers down into the second division. They would have to get a powerful lot of pitching to offset any such calamity.

Manager Del Baker sized up his team's chances as follows:
"We had the power last year—plenty of it. All right, we are going to have it again this year, and even if Greenberg does we've got some good strong arms among our pitchers."

First pitcher to be mentioned, of course, was and is Bo-Bo Newsom, the 21-game winner of 1940, who also won two and nearly three in the world series. Then come the others—Tommy Bridges, Schoolboy Rowe whose ears were beat down around his heels in the world series; Floyd Giebel, two-game winner in as many starts for the Tigers, his major triumph being his pennant-clincher against Bob Feller; Dizzy Trout, Harold Newhouser and Johnny Gorka; and Rookies Harold White from Buffalo and Virgil Trucks from Beaumont, a duo regarded as the best of the freshmen.

York At First
As for the infield, Rudy York with his slugging and his .316 batting average is set for first base, but second is a problem, which time is expected to solve—perhaps even for the best. Anyway, Gehringer is all right now, but has had recurrent twinges in his back and may finally falter after all these years, leaving the door open for young Dutch Meyer, up from Knoxville. Shortstop is a free-for-all among Dick Bartell, who probably won't improve; Eric McNair, the ex-White Soxer, who was out the last half of last season with a twisted knee, and Frank Chouche, who hit .105 in his infrequent appearances.

The veteran Pinky Higgins or Young Murray Franklin, who has been brought up from Beaumont, will hold down third, completing a creaky infield that may be fair or extremely bad.

Birdie Tebbetts and Billy Sullivan assure the Tigers of good catching, and the outfield is close to the standards set by the Tigers of other years. Greenberg, in left, hit 41 homers and batted 340 last season, and the latter mark was duplicated by Barney McCoskey in center. Bruce Campbell will hold down right.

So the Tigers have everything except a sprightly infield, dependable pitching and assurances that Greenberg will be with them throughout the season.

Make Bomb-Proof Shelters For Men At Plane Plant

(International News Service)
LONG BEACH, Cal., March 12.—Bomb-proof shelters for workmen. Underground vaults for storing materials.

And a huge plant with no windows at all and a new device on the doors to prevent light from seeping out.

That's the new $12,000,000 Douglas "black-out" plant at Long Beach now under construction under a speedup program to accelerate the Southern California production of war planes.

The factory, comprising 11 buildings on a 200-acre site, will incorporate every defense feature. Besides the bomb shelters and the vaults, and the absence of windows, the plant will be so constructed and painted that it will blend with the landscape so that it will be exceptionally hard to find by an enemy in the air.

Even the transformers from which will come the electric power for the new plant are built far underground.

Large crews are working day and night, rushing construction of the plant which, as soon as it is finished, will go into production of bombers and transports for the United States Army and Navy and the R.A.F. The plant may be ready for operation by mid-summer.

Interest Booms As Titan, Duke Quints Drill For Tourney

Titans Score 1,051 Points During Season; Both Clubs Are Fast

TITAN FIVE GIRDS FOR LONG ISLAND

District interest in the Metropolitan bouncer ball, billed for Madison Square Garden next week, has skyrocketed to unprecedented proportions. The boom in interest is traced to the fact that both Westminster and Duquesne are billed to display their cage wizardry in the Rose Bowl of basketball. With strong possibilities of a Titan-Duke clash, followers of the crack hoop brigades have commenced to compare notes.

To help matters along, this corner has collected a few statistics concerning the district rivals and here presents same.

Average Is 950
Westminster bagged the Pennsylvania collegiate golf by garnering 20 out of 21 victories for a steady 950 percentage. Duquesne, on the other hand, finished second in the race with 17 victories against a pair of defeats, trailing the Titans with a 930 mark.

The towering Titans led the wickers for 1,051 points during the season, compared to 936 for the opposition. The Lawrie County team amassed an imposing 50 points per game average, limiting the opposition to a 37 point average.

Duquesne's scoring maneuvers were not as prolific. The Smoky City passers zoomed the spheroid through the mesh for 768 markers while their foes hit the rims for 621 points. Duquesne averaged 40 points a game; the opposition 32.

Westminster went to the starting gate 21 times, failing to break the finish tape first only once. Indiana spoiled an otherwise unblemished record, 38-37. The Dukes saw their colors dipped twice, Ohio State slapping an 11 point loss and DePaul applying a six or seven point reversal in mid-season.

Both Teams Fast
The rivals are alike in several respects. Both quintets are as fast as a flock of mongoses, depending largely on fast breaking, and short bullet-like passes. Duquesne usually employs a zone-defense, occasionally switching to man-to-man.

Westminster, too, resorts readily to a tight zone. Like the Dukes, the Titans shift to a man-to-man style, from time to time.

As soon as the official invitations came, both aggregations started preparing for the tough grind ahead. Coach Washabaugh gave his Pennsylvania champs a day rest Monday. The Titans will drill daily, taking time out for the trip and then returning to a New York court for an afternoon session on Monday afternoon.

Coach Washabaugh knocked on wood when asked about the condition of his squad. "Rid, the only casualty, is back in shape. The remaining members of the squad are in excellent shape, all taring to go," the genial Titan major domo said.

Titans Gird
Coach Grover Washabaugh is sending his Westminster Titans through daily practice chores in preparation for next Wednesday night's battle with Long Island University in Madison Square Garden.

The Pennsylvania collegiate champions learned late Tuesday afternoon that they had drawn the famous Blackbirds in the Metropolitan cage tournament. The Titans and Dukes, district entries in the bouncer ball, have been placed in different brackets. Westminster is in the same square with Long Island, Seton Hall and Rhode Island State. The Dukes are placed with Ohio University, Virginia and City College of New York. Duquesne faces Ohio U. on Tuesday night.

New Uniforms
Westminster will don flashy new uniforms in the coming Metropolitan cage tournament. The new suits, due to arrive late today or Thursday, are made of a full block royal blue on white felt. The letters "Titans" are arched on the front.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

"We're with you" shouted an Irish-American to Bibber McCoy when Joe Savoldi had him almost on the broad of his back Monday night.

"Where are you?" questioned the Biber.

"Oh I thought you were over there" replied McCoy, pointing with one hand to another section where a group of Italian-Americans were shouting for Joe to win.

At one time one of the combatants said: "I'm breaking my finger."

"I ought to break your back" replied the other combatant.

This fully demonstrated that there was not much love lost between McCoy, formerly of Holy Cross and Savoldi, ex-grinder of Notre Dame.

In fact, the wrestling exhibition took on the color of a real vicious match as the end drew near.

Stanislav Zhyssko, former heavyweight champion, is now the manager of the Polish giant, Iron Man Talun.

Some who did not see Talun may believe him freakishly built. However, such is not the case.

Six foot, nine inches tall and weighing 303 pounds, he is a cower of strength and wrestling grace.

When he "polished off" Cowboy Grover, he brushed his hands, as though saying: "Well, that's that!"

Fans would like to see Talun in action again.

There's one chap in the city we call "Dutch." We're speaking now of the son of Dr. Martin P. McCann.

Spotlight On Floor Tourney Here Tonight

K. Pulaskis Will Battle Old Furnace In Class A Feature, Two Fine Class B Games

TOURNEY GAMES ARE INTERESTING

The basketball spotlight is on the George Washington High floor tonight where two friendly rivals will battle in a featured class A division game—the Old Furnace and K. Pulaskis. The main game goes on at 8 o'clock.

Judging from the crowds the first two nights, the tourney is proving interesting this year. The games as the tourney goes on will get more and more interesting.

Pulaskis Vs Old Furnace
The Old Furnace team, coached by John Rubels, will be out to average that 32 to 19 setback given them at the Arena recently by the Old Furnace. Manager Hen Mateja will have his strongest possible lineup on the floor tonight which will include a group of former Union High stars as follows: Johnny Plich, a very clever forward and a great ball handler; Steve Plonka, Boron, Eddie Rycaj, one of the best pivot men in town; Gonet, "Peanuts" Hnat, the granddaddy of the Pulaski team; Guz, Telesz and Teddy Kucharski.

Ramblers Vs Genevans
The K. Pulaski team, having dumped the famous St. Michael's into a 22-game winning streak, will enter the tourney tonight brim full of confidence in their ability to do the same to the Furnace boys.

In the third game at 8 o'clock the New Castle Ramblers, a comparatively new team, will tangle with the Genevans in a class B battle. The Genevans are also new to local basketball circles, being made up of all Genevans college boys residents of Lawrence county. Not much is known of the makeup of the Ramblers other than the fact that they have a group of well known south side performers.

Ed. Fritz, Jr. To Be Commission Deputy

Eddie Fritz, Jr., of 222 Fairmont avenue, has received word from Harrisburg of his appointment as a deputy commissioner of boxing and wrestling. He has been instructed to report to Harvey Boyle, commissioner of the state athletic commission at Harrisburg, to take the oath of office and receive instructions. Fritz participated in athletics here and at W. J. and at present participates in Pennsylvania Power company athletics. He is a son of Ed. Fritz, sports editor of The News.

Beaver Falls High Names Dreshar Coach

The Beaver Falls school board at their meeting Monday night elected John Dreshar, former Carnegie Tech grid star and lately coach at Tarentum, to the football coaching vacancy. Dreshar has a record of 37 wins out of 40 games played as head coach at Tarentum.

Frank "Tiger" Ealton after a rather disastrous season this past fall resigned his post several months ago.

GOPHERS GRAB MAT GONFALON

Minnesota defeated Iowa recently to win the Western Conference wrestling championship for 1941.

The Gophers scored 22 points to beat Iowa, the runner up with 17.

REFUTE FACTOR REPORT
The Falcon Reserves through their coach, Marion "Muzzy" Snizek, today refuted the report of the game Sunday at the Falcon hall as turned in by Joe Factor, the score being 36 to 21 not 36 to 31 as The News stated in Monday's paper and reported. This is the second time the Falcon boys have defeated the Factor girls, the other score being 33-17.

MONTREAL—Howie Morenz, Jr., son of the famous former center of the Canadians, stars for Montreal Catholic High school's bantam hockey team.

"ANGEL" COMING AGAIN MONDAY

Maurice Tillet of Rheims, France, known in United States wrestling circles as "The Angel", will return to The Arena, next Monday night with Joe Savoldi as his opponent. "The Angel" is America's most exploited mat artist. The Jefferson Athletic club decided to arrange for a second appearance here because of fans desire to see Tillet who is managed by Paul Bowser, the country's most prominent wrestling promoter.

Sportsmen Have Meeting Tuesday

Standout Crop Of Rainbow And Brown Trout Released, White Reports

Many bills introduced in the senate and house in Harrisburg were discussed during Tuesday evening's monthly meeting of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association, held in the Veterans of Foreign War Hall, East Washington street.

President Andrew Dodds read various bills presented. Since most of the bills are of some interest to the local organization, a vote was taken on each, some of the bills being approved while some were rejected.

It has been pointed out that if the association doesn't help other similar organizations in the state, sportsmen may find an enactment that may not meet with their approval.

"Rosy" White, game warden, gave an enlightening report on trout stocking. He stated that at no other year has a better crop of rainbow and brown trout been released in local streams. White pointed out that none of the fish are under legal size and many are 17 inches long.

Frank Coen reported on ringneck stocking. Coen said that hundreds of cock birds have already been released and that all will be out by Monday. "If you know of any spot in Lawrence County where there are a flock of hens, report it to me at once and you'll get some cock birds released," Coen told the gathering.

At the conclusion, the group enjoyed a three reel movie on "Fur Farming in Wisconsin."

About 150 persons attended the session.

HOUSE LEAGUE GAME
There is one game listed for the House League, the "Y" tonight, the Jewels battling the Globetrotters at 7 o'clock.

Sports World Ramblings

Short yarns picked up along the sports trail:—

Jumping Joe Savoldi wore an almost continuous grin and was rattling off a not too funny joke when we walked in. In between hushes, we started to fire a battery of questions. The famous Notre Dame full-back, here for a pro wrestling show Monday, started off by recounting a tale of woe, a yarn that almost had all the boys in the telephone booth-like room feeling sorry for the big bruiser.

"How much have I made in wrestling and what do I have to show for it?" Savoldi repeated our question. He dropped down in his chair displayed that typical Savoldi smile and carried on. "About $600,000 in 11 years." He dug down into his trouser pocket and came up with a half, a quarter and a dime. "Here's what I have left. If I had enough money, I wouldn't be here tonight, I'd be in the name of the town, the famous 33-year-old athlete continued."

"It's funny how I blew such a bank roll. You'll laugh if I tell you. I lost quite a bit shooting craps. Believe it or not. Then, of course, I added a lot of fun here and there. I still have a little, however. I'm going into the bottling business. I'm going to put out a soda drink bearing my name. I'm not worrying about anything," one of Knute Rockne's greatest players said.

Pitt Five Takes NCAA Tourney Bid

Panthers Will Participate In Eastern Playoffs At Madison, Wisconsin

PITTSBURGH, March 12.—Western Pennsylvania's third collegiate quintet—Pitt University—will participate in one of the post-season tournaments.

Late yesterday, officials announced that Pitt had accepted an invitation to vie in the NCAA Eastern playoffs at Madison, Wisconsin. Pitt's rivals will be Dartmouth, North Carolina University and Wisconsin. The winner will face the Western survivor in Kansas City the following week.

Conn-Barlund To Battle April 4

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, March 12.—By grace of Mike Jacobs, the New York fight promoter, Chicago boxing fans appeared in line for early glimpses of Billy Conn and lightweight king, Lew Jenkins in matches at the Chicago stadium.

Conn, it was announced, will take on Gunnar Barlund, Finland's heavyweight champion, in a 10-round at the stadium April 4 in another of Billy's warmups preparatory to meeting Joe Louis in June.

Jenkins, it was reported, may fight Davey Day at the stadium, also in April, if Jenkins is not deterred by Bob Montgomery in their fight slated for March 26.

Johnson Bronze Plays Tonight

The Johnson Bronze team, entrants in the Class B division of the city-county basketball tourney, will tackle a tough Class A team in a non-tourney game at New Wilmington tonight, meeting the strong Gus Slovinsky Collegians. The game will be played at the Community Hall at 7:30 o'clock.

The following J. B. boys will meet at the "Y" at 6:30 o'clock to make the trip: Tom Strausbaugh, Fred Marcella, Vic Ross, Joe Ross, "Bugs" Flynn, Frank Reed, Tommy Donovan, Jameson and Coach Paul Marcella.

Tourney Trophies Being Displayed

The elaborate display of trophies and medals for the winners in the Fourth Annual City-County basketball tournament are being prominently displayed in the Reynolds and Summers store window on East Washington street and drawing favorable comment from the many hundreds who have already glimpsed the shimmering array of bronze and silver trophies.

In the display are 10 big trophy cups, 20 gold basketballs, 20 medals, seven plaques, seven special red, white and blue emblems, and in all there are over 60 prizes the tournament champions and runnersup will get.

Chet Ziemba, Illinois ice hockey star and baseball player, is one of the university's most brilliant students.

Elmer Layden, new pro czar, and Frank Leahy, Notre Dame coach, came up for discussion. "Well, I tell you, I think Layden is lucky. I hardly think he would remain in South Bend after next season. Getting that kind of dough has lots of licks attached to it. I talked to Leahy a day or so ago in South Bend. He's a grand fellow. He's going to have a good team. The material is plenty good. Joe opened. Savoldi started telling another joke and that's where we came in."

Yesterday morning, another famous athlete visited the newsroom. Bald, burly Stanislaus Zhyssko, the former world's wrestling champion, topped in and asked if we thought that kind of dough has lots of licks attached to it. "It's worth a plug. The 60-year old Pole recited all the wrestling virtues that belong to the 6 foot 8 Talun. "He has been beaten three times on points but never thrown," Stan boasted.

"I don't want the public to consider Talun as a freak. He isn't. He happens to be a gigantic athlete who is well proportioned for his height. I found him in the woods of Poland and was amazed at his strength. To me, he represents the ideal athlete. I'll put him up against anyone. 'The Angel', especially," the ex-champ asserted. He left assuring us that Talun will be champion in the near future.

Class B Games Prove Exciting

Mustangs, Bessemer Juniors, New Castle Saxons Win In Tourney Battles

LARGE CROWD AT WASHINGTON GYM

Three Class B games were played last night at the George Washington High gym in the Fourth Annual City-County basketball tourney, before a crowd of close to 600 fans. It was the second night for the class B games in the Mahoningtown Mustangs led by Latiano and Razzano defeated the Booker T Washington quintet 31 to 20. At the half the Mustangs led 14 to 7. Johnson and Thomas were the best bets in the colored lineup. The Washingtons had been the favorites up until game time. The Mustangs showed a flashy offensive attack.

Bessemer Juniors Win
The second game on the menu was the best of the three with the Bessemer Juniors springing an upset by nodding the St. George Greek team, Church league champions out in the final moments of play 32 to 30 in a torrid engagement. At the half the Bessemers led 16 to 15. Johnston was the big scoring star in the Bessemer lineup. For the Greeks the playing of Nicky Lucas and Cokey Orhites was the best.

In the third game the New Castle Saxons led by Kuttisch and Lang defeated the Polish Falcon Reserves 27 to 20, with Noga and Gribo the best for the Falcons. At the half it was 14 to 12 in favor of the Saxons. The game was hard fought the final two periods.

Long Island U. First Tourney Opponent For Titans In New York

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, March 12.—Westminster college drew the Long Island U. Blackbirds as their first opponent in the Metropolitan inter-collegiate basketball tournament in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night, March 19, in the second game of a double-header. Rhode Island State and Seton Hall will be opponents in the initial game of the evening.

Last year, Long Island beat the Titans 47-42, by coming from behind in the final five minutes of play after Westminster had led the Blackbirds during the first three quarters.

Coach Washabaugh of Westminster will take ten Titan players with him on the New York trip, and will leave New Castle Sunday, March 16. The ten players making the trip will include Lee Fox, Schenectady, N. Y.; Dale Dunmire, Vandergrift; Frank Metra, Farrell, Fred Miller, Connellsville; Frank O'Hara, Ford City; Ted Osoff, Oil City; Charles "Buzz" Ridl, Irwin; Joseph Spak, Pittsburgh; Stan Wasik, Pittsburgh; and Bob Washabaugh, New Wilmington.

Starters against the Long Island U. Blackbirds will probably be Ridl and Fox, forwards; Wasik, center; and Dunmire, and Spak, guards. Out for the past month with a sprained ankle, Ridl should be in excellent shape for the initial Titan test in the Garden tournament.

A single defeat to any team in the Metropolitan tournament will disqualify that group for the finals. Double-headers are scheduled for three evenings, March 18, 19 and 22, with the final game of the tournament set for Monday, March 24.

O'Brien Beats Klingensmith

Leasure Brothers, Cortez, Crews And Wargo Win Battles

JACKIE BURKE DEFEATS WATSON

Regis O'Brien, 160 pounds of dynamite from McKees Rocks, exploded a series of lefts and rights in the face of one Marion Klingensmith of Brownsville last night at the Shelby auditorium in the main event of a good card staged by Johnny Locasino for the Shelby Social club before about 500 fans, to win the unanimous decision. They are mid-weights.

The Ellwood City fight card last evening was pleasing throughout. The boys gave the best they had. Unfortunately two substitutions had to be made because Russ Baxter had a badly lacerated finger and Billy Feale is laid up with flu. However, the cards put on good fights.

O'Brien showed Klingensmith a bit of leather in the three rounds and in the second heat, at the verge of sleep. O'Brien is a much improved boxer and puncher since his last showing at the Arena here in New Castle. Klingensmith substituted for Ted Delarado of East Liverpool.

Lester Leasure of New Castle, a substitute for Russ Baxter in the 130-pound class, won a unanimous decision over the dusky Nate Harge of Aliquippa. Both boys slugged for three rounds, with Leasure finishing strongest. The decision was popular.

Baby Face Leasure, a brother of Lester, won his first amateur fight last night in the fourth bout in the 132-pound class. He scored a technical kayo over rugged Bobby Carr of New Brighton. Leasure displayed promise and used a right cross that had Carr blavely-eyed.

Elwood City Wins
The first bout in the 122-pound class found Andy Rahol of McKees Rocks winner by a knockout over Scotty Anderson of New Brighton. Rahol had too many punches for the unwilling Anderson to absorb.

The second bout in the 130-pound class resulted in Elmer Cortez of Ellwood City winning the unanimous decision over Jim Eadie of Brownsville, Pa. Cortez was the most effective puncher of the two, although neither boy was in distress at any time.

In the third bout, Irish Jackie Gribo of Brownsville, Pa., won easily over Bud Watson of Chester, W. Va., in the 135-pound class. Burke, while only a novice at the game, shows great promise and handles himself nicely. He won all three votes.

In the fifth bout, Roy Crews of Ellwood City won all three votes over Al Sayers of Chester, W. Va., in the 130-pound class.

In the seventh bout in the 137-pound class Nickie Wargo of McKees Rocks won by a technical decision.

TWO LITTLE BOYS WEIGH 375!

These two Gloucester, Mass., boys must have at least a good claim to the title of "America's Fattest Brothers." Nine-year-old Joseph Randazza has gained 110 pounds in the last 14 months, now weighing 290 pounds. He fears, though, that his three-year-old brother, Sammy, may pass him up as the family heavyweight, because the younger lad weighs 85 pounds, more than Joe did at the same age.

Observance Dinner Program At Y. W. C. A.

Responsibilities Of Democracy Stressed; Play Is Feature Of Program

Stressing the fact that democracy is everybody's business, a most interesting program was presented at the 14th nation-wide observance held by the Business and Professional Girls' clubs of the local Y. W. C. A. in the "Y" Tuesday evening.

The theme of this program, one of 500 being held by Y. W. groups last night, was "Vitalize Democracy" the program featuring a play with that title.

Festivities got underway with the serving of a delicious dinner at 6:30 o'clock, after which the presiding officer, Floy Owens, spoke on the responsibilities of democracy and group singing was enjoyed, led by Mrs. William J. Caldwell. Miss Evelyn Bernine was the accompanist. The dinner was served by members of the Eva Bowles club of the Elm street Y. W. C. A.

Greetings were given as follows: From Shanghai, Dorothy Warnock; New Zealand, Lillian Ekblom; Argentina, Loretta Rashid; from Ruth Rouse, president of the World Y. W. C. A., Lena Padilla; from Julia White, president of B. and P. Council, Elizabeth Yingling.

A song by the group, "These Things Shall Be," closed the program, after which dancing was enjoyed by the guests.

A group of business girls from the Y. W. in Butler were in attendance, along with Miss Cora Armstrong, new general secretary of the Butler "Y," and Miss Katherine Bishop, new Girl Reserve secretary there. The Butler girls invited the local girls to meet with them some time and an invitation was extended the Butler group to spend the business girls week-end at Camp East Brook, the date to be announced later. Mrs. Stella Wise, foreign communities secretary from Butler, was also present.

The committee in charge of this event included Loretta Rashid, Alma Rainey and Dorothy Ward. Hostesses were: Blue Triangle club, Betty Emery, Mary Twell; Square Circle, Evelyn Sacripant; Sue Marone; Junior Business Girls, Anna Mae Hazen, Elizabeth Yingling.

St. John's Women To Aid Production

Red Cross Chapter Announces Formation Of 58th Production Unit

The 58th auxiliary of the Lawrence county chapter American Red Cross production campaign on war relief was formed by the St. John's Lutheran church. A group of women from this church meets every Monday morning under the supervision of Mrs. W. W. Duff, chairman of surgical dressings, and her co-chairmen, Mrs. Norman Martin, Mrs. H. J. Cullford, Mrs. John Norris and Mrs. William Pond. The addition of this 58th auxiliary completes the five-day surgical dressing program being carried on by the chapter.

It is called to the attention of any interested women in the community that there are a few vacancies in each one of these groups and there is the opportunity of another evening auxiliary if any organization is interested. Mrs. Duff will be very pleased to hear from any organization desiring information.

English Blondes Are Undergoing War 'Blackout'

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent
LONDON, March 12.—Gentlemen who prefer blondes are going to be disappointed—at least in England.

Thousands of English women whose "golden" tresses depend for their glory on the skill of the chemist and the care of the hair-dresser are being "black-outed."

The British government's restrictive quota on luxury articles is responsible for many of Britain's women deciding to allow their hair to return to its normal color.

Hardest hit are the hundreds of small hairdressers throughout the country. Many of them are having to ration bleaching for their customers and some are unable to carry on at all.

Even the biggest concerns which had the foresight and capital to get in a store of the necessities are becoming worried about what will happen when these supplies are exhausted and they are faced with a 25 per cent minimum cut in goods.

In all the big cities, hairdressers are finding the same trouble. Many of them are working on their last bottle of bleach and don't know when they will get more. Most of them are advising customers to let their hair return to its original color.

Hairdressers are forecasting a reduction in styles because of the increasing shortage of hairpins. They believe that women will return to the shingle and the plain bob and fringe.

Another shortage will affect painted fingernails. Amylacetate is now being used on more important work in the airplane industry.

NEW STRIKE DEVELOPS
(International News Service)
EDGEWATER, N. J., March 12.—Employees of the Edgewater plant of the Aluminum Company of America, holders of large national defense contracts, went on strike today.

The walkout was called by the CIO Aluminum Workers of America after conferences between union leaders and company officials in Pittsburgh failed to settle wage-hour differences.

Union officials, who are demanding time and a half for overtime work and a general 10 per cent wage increase, claimed that all production had been brought to a standstill.
